VOYAGER DIGITAL HOLDING, INC Debtors

CASE NUMBER. 22-10943 (MEW)

NOTICE OF OBJECTION TO YOUR PROOF OF CLAIM

PROOF OF CLAIM NUMBER 01329

Creditor objection against modified proof of claim by Voyager Digital Holdings Inc.

Claim Amount

I object against voyager digital holdings about my proof of claim. Voyager is trying to modify my claim trying to take nearly 50% or more of my actual cash value or percentage of my cryptocurrency. I cannot allow this and am against this.

This is the actual cash value $4220.83 I put in with my own cash from my bank into voyager purchasing various cryptocurrencies. This amount $4220.83 will not be effected by the crypto market rate. Whether the market is up or down it cannot effect this amount $4220.83 because this is the actual cash amount I put in. I did not put how much I made or loss based off my $4220.83 due to market changes. This is only my actual cash value I had in my voyager digital account before voyager digital decided to do a bankruptcy.

The $4220.83 is the exact cash amount I had left at the current market rate at the time and the total quantity/percentage of cryptocurrency would be at 1772.926833 comprised of different cryptocurrencies I have purchased before the bankruptcy.

Definition of Cryptocurrency

If the court is unfamiliar how cryptocurrency works. Whatever amount of money you put into cryptocurrency it is always the same. If I put in a $100.00 it will always be $100.00 and you will get a decimal number "percentage" at that market rate you purchased it at and this dollar amount and percentage will never change and will always remain $100.00 no matter if the market goes up or down. So for example if I put $100.00 and bought bitcoin when it was at $20,000 market rate you will get a decimal number of 0.005, this is your percentage of bitcoin which you purchased it at $20,000. So the cash amount of $100.00 and your decimal number/percentage cannot ever change as long as keep your bitcoin in a crypto exchange and don't cash out which I have no intention to. Transferring your bitcoin to another exchange from Voyager to Coinbase will also not change the value of your $100.00 and your decimal/percentage of your cryptocurrency as well. I only want to transfer my money to another exchange. But as of right now voyager digital has taken nearly 50% or more of my digital assets that is why my percentage of my cryptocurrency is much lower than it originally was. All the reasons that voyager has given to the court to legally take my money and percentage of my cryptocurrency is false.

Conclusion

I would be willing to only give voyager digital no more than 10% of my cash $4220.83 or quantity of my cryptocurrency or nothing at all. This amount would be $422.08 or 177.29 cryptocurrency quantity. I am only considering this and is subject to change by me the creditor. I only am willing to give this amount just to help voyager digital. And in know way should voyager use bankruptcy to make a profit as if it were still in business.

Anyone who knows anything about cryptocurrency knows that what voyager is saying is that they can take nearly 50% or more of my digital assets legally thru the court knows that this is fraud.

So what voyager has done now is transfer a huge portion of my cryptocurrency into their own personal cryptocurrency accounts so they can make money when the market goes up and only allowing me to keep a small portion of cryptocurrency that I can transfer to another crypto exchange or I can wait to receive a paper check. They have took almost 50% or more of my money from my $4220.83 leaving only about $900.00. The quantity of cryptocurrency I originally had was at 1772.29 now it is at 766.40. This is illegal.
